Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-7, 9-14, 16-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gifford (US 6,549,612).

As shown in Figs. 1-6, especially Fig. 3, Gifford discloses transmitting a message (email or text) including an attachment (cols. 1-15, especially e.g., col. 2, lines 65-67; col. 6, lines 25-37), in a radio communication system (Fig. 4; WAP, col. 1, lines 62-67), transmitting a text message (e.g., email/WAP message) to a destination via a sever (wireless base station for digital phone or PDA, Fig. 3; mail, WEB, or Internet server, Figs. 3-4; or col. 6, lines 25-37), sending an attachment to a server (sending email to email server, Fig. 4; sending WAP message to base station; or col. 2, lines 39-43; col. 6, lines 32-36; col. 8, lines 31-54), transmitting a message including an address (URL links to server locations of stored images, videos, voice, etc., cols. 2, and 6-11, especially col. 2, lines 47-64; hyper links, col. 6), file type (col. 14, lines 24-41; the various protocols used have types associated with them and the respective OSI layers; the file types are also known by the extension, e.g., col. 9, lines 8-13), receiving at a computer or a phone (Fig. 3-4 and respective disclosure), using a processor to for controlling a transceiver (can be the processor in a phone or PDA, col. 3, line 48-col. 4, line 59), storing an address (col. 2 and cols. 6-11, especially col. 8, line 31-col. 9, line 39), and a means for querying a user regarding whether an attachment is to transmitted (e.g., when creating the bill with hyper/URL links, col. 5, lines 1-30; or interacting with the server, col. 6, lines 25-61).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 2661

4. Claims 8 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gifford as set forth above, in view of Puhl (US 6,223,291).

Gifford fails to particularly call for using SMS with the WAP devices in figure 3.

Puhl (US 6,223,291) teaches that it is well known to use SMS (col. 10, lines 23-32) in a wireless environment (PDA, col. 3, lines 60-67; interacting with billing records, col. 4, lines 49-60; wireless devices using base stations, cols. 4-5; cell phones, col. 7, lines 9-36; WAP, Col. 9, lines 58-67, sending a message with an address/link in it, col. 10, lines 54-65) where servers are used.

It would have been obvious to add the SMS protocol taught by Puhl with the WAP wireless environment disclosed in Gifford because it would add to the compatibility and Gifford is clearly interested in compatibility of many types of devices (Figs. 3-4; cols. 1-2).
